

Mpox Vaccine

The vaccine for the Mpox virus is called JYNNEOS.

JYNNEOS is a two-dose vaccine administered 28 days (4 weeks) apart.

JYNNEOS can help protect against smallpox, Mpox, and other similar diseases. It is FDA-approved for people 18 and older.

You are considered fully vaccinated two weeks after receiving your second dose of the JYNNEOS vaccine.

After you get the second shot of JYNNEOS, it takes about two weeks for the vaccine's protection to be at its strongest.

If you have been exposed to the Mpox virus and you are not feeling well, you may be eligible for the vaccine. See more information on the reverse side about eligibility and how to make an appointment.

The following groups of people may be eligible for the Mpox vaccine:

1 People who have known or suspected exposure to someone with Mpox in the past two weeks

2 People who had a sex partner in the past two weeks who was diagnosed with Mpox

3 Gay, bisexual, and other men who have sex with men, transgender, or nonbinary people who in the past 6 months have had:
